

'HERE'S HOW' was the situation at the Kadena AB, Japan-based 33rd Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron recently. Lt. Col. Y. Yamazaki, left, medical division of the Japan Air Self Defense Force Air Rescue Force, received a sample parachute to be used by his people—but no instructions telling how to use or maintain it. Accompanied by three other officers Colonel Yamazaki flew from Iruma, Japan to Kadena AB where SMSgt. Kerry Kelly, right, was asked to tell some of the fine points of parachuting.
