

Cunningham Way Travis AFB, California

These photos from the Cunningham Way Dedication held at Travis AFB, California on March 4, 2010. The PJs/CROs from the 129th Rescue Squadron (Moffett Airfield) also came up to support the event. There were some former PJs there as well. The dedication ceremony was very nice. The California Patriot Guard Riders gave outstanding support. They were at the airport to greet the Cunningham's and at the dedication.

The Cunningham's arriving at Sac airport and totally surprised by the Patriot Guard Riders flag line.

Patriot Guard Riders Captain presenting Jackie Cunningham with flowers.

Team photo of the airport group who greeted the Cunningham's. Jackie Cunningham and Red Cunningham are in front.

The Patriot Guard Riders forming a flag line at Travis AFB just prior to the dedication ceremony.

Red and Jackie were very proud that day and seemed to be in good spirits.

They actually presented the Cunningham's with their own street sign to take back home with them.

And here it is, a street named in honor of SRA Jason Cunningham. Hooyah!